Several factors that increase a bill's chance of becoming law include a bill authored by legislators in the majority party (Republicans control the House and Democrats control the Senate) and having a companion bill (a version in both the House and Senate). Bills written by the chairs of the education committees have a very high chance of making progress. Kresha (finance), Bennett (policy), in the House and Cwodzinski (policy), and Kunesh (finance) in the Senate. Bills not heard in committee tend to die.
